organised criminal gangs.

county lines is big business

The criminals who run County Lines operations turn over huge amounts of drugs and money. The

These packages will usually contain drugs and the child will become trapped in a cycle of forced criminal exploitation. This often begins by being told to deliver packages, and often extends into selling the drugs contained in the packages, travelling across the UK on public transport at all times of day and night.

how to talk to a child/young person who you think may be at risk of county lines

Try taking an indirect approach to raise your concerns.

You could say a friend at work was talking about child exploitation/County Lines/gangs and give a few details – for example you could describe what County Lines is, or talk about the ways gangs groom children and make it hard for them to walk away. You could ask whether your child knows about it. Do they think any of their friends or school mates might be involved and need help?

Alternatively, you could choose a guiet time and ask directly.

Ask them if you can talk. Tell them that you care about them and you are worried that they are showing signs of being caught up in some activity that might not be safe.

Let them know that you can help them, that you understand they might be frightened but that you are there to help them make different choices if they want to and you will help them, and the rest of your family, to stay safe, no matter what is going on.
